

Original TEM Mission Statement:

My goal is to graduate from Full Sail University with distinction and get a job in the field of Web Design and Development. To reach these goals I will be balanced, aim for perfection, be adaptable, and be open minded. Being balanced will allow me to keep all aspects of my life in equal proportion to each other; both professionally and personally, so that I can continuously keep striving towards my goals, by balancing work, continual education, and other responsibilities. Always aiming for perfection will keep pushing me to be better than I was the day before, by going above and beyond what is asked when I complete assignments, discussions, and projects. Being adaptable will allow me to be more flexible with things constantly changing around me, with the ability and willingness to do things outside of my comfort zone, and to learn from my mistakes in order to overcome any obstacles. Being open minded will allow me to see things from another perspective, so that I can keep growing both professionally and personally, because everyone sees things differently and it will make me a better person. Through perfection, balance, adaptability, and being open minded I will achieve my goals and become successful in my continual education at Full Sail University and obtaining a great job in the field of Web Design and Development.

Summary Of My Original TEM Mission Statement:

Since I wrote my TEM Mission Statement a lot has changed. My statement is still somewhat relevant and I'm trying to the best of my ability to uphold my very lengthy mission statement of being balanced, aiming for perfection, being adaptable, and being open minded. The most significant thing that has changed in my life is my stress level, because not everything in my life is in perfect sync yet. My approach to completing things has changed slightly. I am succeeding in keeping my grades up like I wanted, but without having found the perfect balance, things have become more stressful and convoluted. My end goals are the same, but my path to obtaining my goals has evolved and changed for the better, especially after taking this current course.

Where Are You On Your Journey?

Currently I am progressing exactly as planned on my journey. I am currently achieving my goals of getting good grades to hopefully become valedictorian, I'm striving for perfection, and being as adaptable as I can. The only thing that I am still struggling with is finding the equal balance between my continuous education, my professional life, and my personal life. It's a fine line between trying to find the perfect balance between everything, but I am working on it and getting closer towards that goal.

Revised TEM Mission Statement:

My goal is to graduate from Full Sail University as valedictorian and obtain a job in the field of Web Design and Development. To reach these goals I will be more balanced, continuously aim for perfection, be adaptable, and flexible. Being more balanced will allow me to keep my professional and personal life in equal proportion to each other, by balancing work, my continual education, and my other responsibilities, so that I can eliminate my anxiety and stress over doing to many things at once. Aiming for perfection will keep pushing me to become better than I was the day before. This can be achieved by going above and beyond what is asked of me in all aspects of my life. Being adaptable allows me to be more flexible with everything around me.

The ability and willingness to do things outside of my comfort zone and learning from my mistakes will allow me to overcome any obstacles. Through perfection, balance, and being adaptable, I will achieve my goals and become successful in my continual education at Full Sail University and obtain an amazing job in the field of Web Design and Development.
