

Week 3 – Status Report

This week has been a very successful week for me at work. I won a service award based on my dedication to customer service and I've also been chosen to work on a few special projects, that will allow me to grow both professionally and personally. Another accomplishment this week is that I finished all of my research assignments ahead of time and was able to learn more about JavaScript and how to successfully debug it, along with what JSON is and how it is used in the field.

I had a few challenges this week. My grandfather was admitted back into the hospital, so I've been splitting my time between work, school, and keeping him company. Another challenge is that my job is still experiencing an influx of customer complaints and I've had to spend a lot more time at work than normal. It's a challenge because I have to balance everything in order to make sure that all of my assignments are done on time, I take care of my professional responsibilities, and my personal obligations.

My goals this week are to make sure everything is handled to the best of my ability. I want to make sure that all of my assignments are done early and turned in, so that I can get a good grade in this course. Another goal is to make sure that my grandfather is taken care of, so that he can come home where he is more comfortable. My last goal this week is to continue building my final project so that it is ready by next week.
